

The compiler reads the source code...

... and generates
object code.

You execute the program (one way or another)...

... and the result
appears on the screen.